

Making a List, Checking It Twice

Think you had your holiday shopping finished in August? Think again. Our list of the best gifts for lawyers — whether they've been naughty or nice — will send you racing back to the malls or the Internet to pick up the perfect item for your favorite legal mind.

Law Tunes

Let lazy attorneys know that it's not too late to make up for the slacking off they did all year by giving them a copy of "The Lawyer's Holiday Humor Album," composed, performed and produced by New York litigator Lawrence Savell.

With rock 'n' roll hits like "Santa and I Are Gonna Pull An All-Nighter On Christmas," "It's Gonna Be a Billable Christmas" and "Ridin' on a Red-Eye With Santa On Christmas Eve," your thankful colleagues will realize that the holidays are the perfect time to catch up on their caseload. For the lawyer who needs a little year-round encouragement, Savell's other hit CD, "Legal Holidayze," features gems like "Rainmaker Reindeer," "Catchin' CLE" and a "A Million Christmas Trees," the document production song. If these collections of "allegedly-humorous law-related holiday songs" don't motivate your indolent co-workers to pick up the pace, start the new year off right by reporting them to your managing partner.

Nobody likes a loafer!

The two albums are also perfect for office parties and make great gifts for that judge you're trying to brown-nose. Savell, who serves as of counsel to Chadbourne & Parke, sells his albums for $16.99 each and offers samples of his original songs at www.lawtunes.com.
